Airey Force, on the western side of Ullswater, is about three miles from the lake. The "Force" (immortalised by Wordsworth in "The Somnambulist") is a steep and nearly perpendicular fall of about eighty feet into a deep and narrow glen. The volume of water being usually fairly copious, it is invariably a fine sight whether viewed from the top or the bottom. Two rustic bridges make either view possible.

Dear S. Thanks for card. I like your local views better than any you send. You are quite a number I have it got yet too. How's this one. Better than the last isn't it. We have had lovely weather having some here lately. June 4th

I will be passing through London, on Friday, on my way to Chelmsford, from Weymouth and will do my very best to call and see you in the afternoon. Aunty & my two cousins will be with me. I do hope I shall be able to see you. If I don't, then I shall write you a long letter before I leave home next Tuesday. We leave Hull for Belgium at 5.30 pm next Wednesday.
